23rd Session of the Human Rights Review Panel (HRRP)

The 23rd regular session of the Human Rights Review Panel was held in Pristina from 10 to 12 November 2014. The Panel reviewed twelve complaints and gave decisions in ten cases. The Panel found a violation of the complainant's rights in one case and issued a follow-up decision in another. It declared five cases were declared inadmissible and struck one out of the list of complaints. Two requests for re-examination of complaints were rejected. Further, the Panel decided to communicate two cases to the Head of Mission of EULEX, inviting him to comment on the admissibility and merits of those complaints. The next Panel session is scheduled to take place in mid-January 2015.

Follow-up decision in *Zahiti against EULEX

In its follow up decision to the case Zahiti against EULEX (no. 2012-14) the Panel found that the EULEX Head of Mission had implemented its recommendations in part only. The Panel invited the Head of Mission to reconsider the implementation of its remaining recommendations. In her application to the Panel the complainant stated that she had been attacked and injured by an EULEX Police Officer and, as a result, was unable to work for several months.

Case *Becić against EULEX

In the case Becić against EULEX, the Panel found that EULEX had violated the complainant's rights under Article 13 of the European Convention on Human Rights (right to an effective remedy). The complaint related to the alleged failure by EULEX to investigate a usurpation of the complainant's flat. The Panel made recommendations for remedial action to the Head of Mission

Inadmissibility decisions

Five cases were found inadmissible. Three of them (Kadribasic against EULEX, no. 2014-09; Rexhepi against EULEX no. 2014-19; Selmani against EULEX, no. 2014-23) concerned proceedings before Kosovo courts. As in numerous previous cases concerning similar complaints, the Panel found that it has, in principle, no jurisdiction to review judicial proceedings before the Kosovo courts, even if EULEX judges sit on the bench. In one case (Fazliu against EULEX, no. 2014-28) the Panel found that it had not been shown that EULEX was involved in any capacity in the matters complained of. In another case the Panel declared that it had no jurisdiction over the complaint as it had been lodged by an EULEX employee (Beka against EULEX, no.2014-25).

Strike out decision

In the case Hyseni against EULEX (no. 2014-24), the Panel decided to strike out the application from its list of cases. The complaint related to an allegedly unjustified detention on remand. Since the complainant did not reply to its repeated requests for information, the Panel concluded that the he had lost interest in pursuing his complaint.

Decisions on requests for e-examination of complaints

The Panel examined two requests for re-examination of cases (Kadriu against EULEX, no. 2013-27 and Krasniqi against EULEX, no. 2014-04). In both of them it concluded that there were no grounds to re-examine as the complainants failed to point at any new evidence which could have had a decisive influence on the Panel's findings.

Communication of cases to the Head of Mission of EULEX

The Panel communicated two cases to the EULEX Head of Mission, requesting his observations on their admissibility and merits. One case was lodged by a relative of a person missing since 1999. The complainant submits that EULEX have failed to conduct a proper investigation into her relative's disappearance. The other case relates to an investigation carried out by an EULEX prosecutor. The complainant alleges that he has not been formally notified about the status of his case, in particular that the investigations against him have been terminated.
